

Message from Jen

my inbox

from:

Jen

to:

Lee Bradley

subject:

re: various message:

Hi Lee!

previous

message actions

save

trash

flag

mark as unread

Yes, computers always go against me. I think it's aliens/AI testing us like lab rats, lol. That or gremlins.

I'm trying to read a bunch of leadership books for work and BLAH. Soooo not in the mood for it. I need summer reads like you are reading. I need to check them out. Thanks for the recommendations. :)

God bless re: running. I just started to walk after work and UGH, I don't do sweat, lol. My legs don't like it, but I need to get used to it. I'm glad you are still running. It's inspiring.

Great picture! It looks nice and cool and green. :)

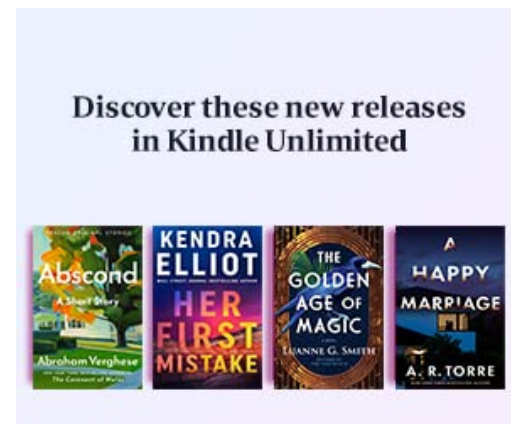

My Gent and I are doing well. Thank you for asking. 😊

You mentioned summer reading, how do you choose your reading material; feels/mood, seasonal or other? I randomly pick things, though I am reading a few for reviews for authors and a few for work right now. Well, trying to motivate to read them. I keep slacking. 🙄

I'm at training for work, so need to hit the sack earlier rather than later. Sigh. Adulting.

Wishing you and yours the best!

Jen :)

block this member \(?\)

Reply

Jen said to you:

Hi Lee!

8 hours, 19 min ago

view | save | trash

Yes, computers always go against me. I think it's aliens/AI testing us like lab rats, lol. That or gremlins.

I'm trying to read a bunch of leadership books for work and BLAH. Soooo not in the mood for it. I need summer reads like you are reading. I need to check them out. Thanks for the recommendations. :)

God bless re: running. I just started to walk after work and UGH, I don't do sweat, lol. My legs don't like it, but I need to get used to it. I'm glad you are still running. It's inspiring.

Great picture! It looks nice and cool and green. :)

My Gent and I are doing well. Thank you for asking. 😊

Wishing you and yours the best!

Jen :)

you said to Jen:

Jul 31, 2025

07:37AM

view | delete

Hi Jen,

Has it ever happened to you? You compose a message and then you hit some keys and it's gone?

Oh well, sometimes this is a good thing cuz it gives you a 2nd chance to improve it.

Anyway, long time no correspond. Thanks for recent like of my "review" of Oates's Fox. I've been reading a lot of Sophie Kinsella and Louise Penny. I have revised my opinion of Louise Penny. I'm rereading her The Brutal Telling. Highly recommend. Kinsella's My Not So Perfect Life and Wedding Night are great chick lit (and deep too) "summer reads".

Running Cross Country and road races. Have 4 road races in August.

Here's me and friends at a local resevoir.

Hope you and your guy are doing well. :-)

Best,

Lee

Jen said to you:

!!!!!!!

Mar 04, 2025

05:19PM

view | save | trash

Oh my goodness!!! Are you ok?!?!?!?

I'm so sorry to hear about your fall at the race. Yes, the shoveling for so long before the race probably didn't help. Gentle hug. ❄️ (snow is the ENEMY! I detest the cold, so snow is hated by association by me.)

I hope things turn out ok for you. That must have been so scary! I'm glad you are getting checked out by your doctors. Some people can be stubborn re: going to the doctor even though they need to. I am glad you reading religious books and listening to religious music. It helps me to focus on the meaning of the season. At first it's really REALLY hard to drop all other books, but by the time Easter rolls around, I feel so refreshed! I LOVE that feeling. With work being so hectic and up in the air, I can use any help I can get, that's for sure.

I've been behind on reading my Bible, but I'm trying to catch up. Not like I haven't read it before, but I always find different passages speak to me at different times in my life, you know?

Have you read the Harry Potter books? I did and really loved them, though books 5 and 7 could have stood to have about 100-200 pages cut from them IMHO. I'm reading a fanfic that follows the characters 20 years after the wizarding war and it is SO well written! I'm LOVING it, though I'm not done with it yet, so I'll have to put it down until next month. 😞😞 A friend of mine got me into it and I'm afraid to try anything else she recommends, because I don't want to get obsessed with anything else, lol.

I picked up an Anne Tyler on your recommendation, but haven't had a chance to start it yet. It's hard to find the time to sit down and read. When I'm home, I tend to clean/straighten. I'm not home a lot, so my place can get a bit untidy. Thank goodness washers and dryers exist! Laundry is my favorite chore, lol. Just stick it in the machine, add soap, push a few buttons and VOILA! Clean and dried laundry!

I'm going to get going. I stayed up late reading this morning and I'm feeling it now. I regret nothing! 😊😊😊

Hope you are healing up nicely and that you and yours are all doing well.

Jen 😊

you said to Jen:

.

Hi Jen,

Feb 28, 2025

07:03AM

view | delete

Just finished The Wager by David Grann. Found it on a bookshelf my wife and I use when we get a book, read it, and then think it's interesting enough to suggest to the other they should try it. I liked the book a lot and highly recommend it. Historical nonfiction. 1742-44. The Wager was a British man-of-war ship that wrecked off the coast of Patagonia.

He wrote Killers of the Flower Moon. We read this in our bookclub a few years back.

I fell in a race and banged up my hands and face a bit. Passed out at mile 2.6 in a 5K. I'm OK now but have made an appointment with a new PCP and a cardiologist. Walking and going to the local Senior Center gym now. I think dehydration and shoveling snow for 2 1/2 hrs before the race was the reason. Won't do several races I'm registered for but look forward to a 5K on April 20th in Andover, CT

I think the warming of the last few days is a sign we're done w/ the super cold weather. 'bout time!

Hope you are well.

Lee

you said to Jen:

Feb 04, 2025

01:45PM